The Ahwatukee Foothills Village Planning Committee will talk about outdoor displays, a possible new type of zoning and the latest South Mountain Freeway developments at its meeting Monday. The group will meet at 6 p.m. at Pecos Community Center, 17010 S. 48th St.. The meeting is open to the public.

It's likely the committee will decide whether it supports adding a new zoning classification that allows mixed uses on a single property to the city's zoning ordinance.

The group will also consider whether it wants to alter the rules regarding outdoor displays in certain commercial and industrial areas.

Committee member Laurel Arndt also plans to talk about the draft environmental impact statement for the proposed South Mountain Freeway.
